

The image features a blue background with a white lightning bolt striking a dark, jagged silhouette of a tree or rock formation. The lightning bolt is on the left, and the silhouette is on the right. The text is centered in the middle of the image.

The first time I took a proof on a Vandercook SP-15 of a poem I had written, on paper I made by hand, was like being struck by lightning. Steve Miller

This Vandercook celebration piece was printed by Steve Miller on a Vandercook 4 Proof Press (#18718) in an edition of 110 copies. The paper is Mohawk Cover, the print is a reduction linocut (suicide block), the digital type is Californian from Lanston Type Company via P22 and printed from photopolymer plates.

August 2009, Red Hydra Press, Tuscaloosa, Alabama.